Hadley's

conclusions are interesting.
I'd be curious to hear Victor Fuchs' reaction!

In any case may I have a copy when it's published??

If I accept 85K per death averted at the margin -- for how many $B excess expenditure does that hold? and what part of our present health care investment could be abrogated with no effect on mortality? So how shape Δ investment where it does any good?
